I work at the largest Public Access Center in the country and I feel it is important to empower citizens in media technology.